Dear Sir,

On the 26th ultimo I attended you with reference to a claim sent in on behalf of Mr. Michael Creedon, Clare Lane, to the Adjutant General, which was subsequently forwarded to the Under Secretary of the Lord Lieutenant. I understood from you at the time that, if necessary, a communication would be made to me with a form for verification.

Am I to assume from the fact that no communication whatever has been made to me since, that the claim has gone forward to the Treasury?

The amount of same is £10:16:8 in respect of building materials used by the Military for barricading purposes during the recent rebellion.

to you.

May I beg the favour of your consideration of this claim and a reply to the letters above mentioned?

Sir,

Referring to my letter of yesterday, regarding materials having been taken by the Military at Lincoln Place and Merrion Square, my client Mr. Creedon now informs me that his claim extends only to the plaster of paris which was taken and rendered useless, and that the white cement, ^{which} is in appearance similar to the plaster of paris, was not injured.

This reduces the amount of Mr. Creedon's claim to £10:16:8.

Yours truly,

The Adjutant General,

Mr. Creedon instructs me to say that he makes no complaint whatever against the use by the Military of these things which were taken under the following circumstances:

On Tuesday April 25th and Wednesday 26th a non-commissioned officer and men of the Staffordshire Regiment broke in the door of Mr. Creedon's premises Clare Lane, and took therefrom the materials above mentioned.
They also took planks, scaffolding poles, empty bags, ladders, a hand-cart and other utensils, all of which they returned,
and in respect of which no
