Dear Sirs,

In reply to yours of yesterday re claims, only one form need be sworn ordinarily; it will suffice in the case of joint owners if one makes the declaration.

Yours faithfully,

Secretary.

Dear Sir,

We have your notice that claims are to be furnished in duplicate. Please say whether both forms are to be sworn, or whether it is sufficient to swear one and send it in along with a copy. In the case of joint owners we presume it is sufficient if one makes the declaration.

Yours faithfully,

Dear Sir,

We act as agents for the Misses Emily and Josephine Webb, the owners of the house No 122a Stephens Green. Considerable damage was done to the house both by rifle fire and by the boring of holes through the walls, and we shall be much obliged if you will send us the proper forms upon which a claim should be sent in on behalf of our clients.

Yours faithfully,

Webb Webb
