a gentl massive Gold watch: open face: Chased gold dial and orna- mented back. It was "left" to me by my father at his death in the year 1896. It was an excellent time piece but it had been lying by since that date till it was entrusted to Messrs. H. & A for repair. I often heard my father say that it originally cost £50. He always wore it. apart from any sentimental value it possessed I estimate it would cost me £25. to buy a watch to equal it. The attached letter will go to show how carelessly Messrs. H. & A acted in the matter.										25
