TOTALS, £	84.10. 3.			66.10.3.

Interests in the buildings

I have had interviews with Drimmie & Sons herein. I attach some correspondence for perusal. Notwithstanding the claimants' arguments the item of £8. comes under the heading of consequential loss and must be dis-allowed. As regards the second paragraph of Drimmie's letter of 25th October addressed to me, I am quite aware of what he says but this has no bearing on the point and does not alter the fact that the item is consequential.

Dear Sir,

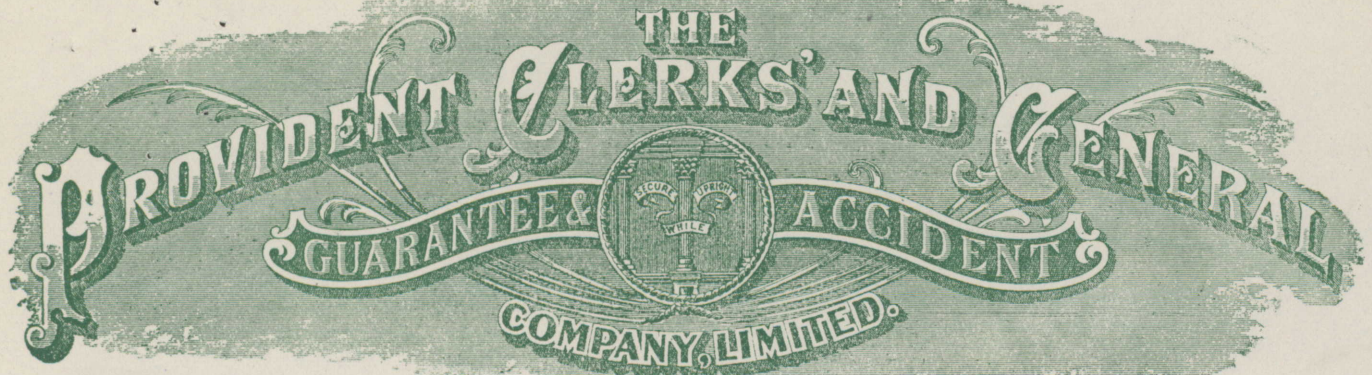

We act as District Agents for the above Company, and we certify that the Item of £30 for Unused Stationery purchased in Dublin, to the best of <sup>our</sup> knowledge and belief fairly represents the value of Stationery which belonged to the Company and which was destroyed when the premises, 41, Lower Sackville Street, were burnt down during the Disturbances in April last.

Yours faithfully,

Dear Sir,

re Claim No. 4583 - Provident Clerks & General Guarantee & Accident Company, Ltd.

We now return herewith the claim form, and we send you the required letter from our Head Office, which we presume will be sufficient for the Committee.

With regard to the claim of £8 for writing agents and policy-holders, we cannot understand on what grounds the Committee consider this as a "consequential loss". All Fire Companies will include in their ordinary Fire Policies such an item. We think this matter should be specially brought under the notice of the Committee, as the claim for writing cards etc. is quite a fair one.

We also send you a certificate as to the item of £30 for unused stationery purchased in Dublin.

Yours faithfully,

David Drimmie & Sons

Dear Sir,

Referring to this Company's claim which is now before your Committee in respect of damage resulting from the disturbances in April last, I beg to say that the estimate of £25 for stock of unused stationery in our Dublin Office at the time of the disaster is based on an estimate made by myself to the best of my knowledge and belief, and I consider the sum is fair and reasonable and does not more than represent the value of the stock which was destroyed.

I understand that the claim for £8 for re-writing agents' and policy cards and renewal notices is stated by the Assessor to be consequential loss and not therefore recoverable but I fail to see on what ground this argument is based as it cannot be contended that our loss is reinstated by supplying blank agents' and policy cards (Item 2) as these to be of any use must be completed with the necessary details and the charge of £8 which we make is the bare cost of re-writing the cards as stated.

Yours faithfully,
