F. J. Hunt.

Dear Sir,

We are obliged by yours of 2nd inst and note what you say.

We think however that the Inspector must have been misinformed. Our clients instructs us that one item alone in his claim, a large roll top desk, was worth at least £24, and that his estimate of the loss was anything but excessive.

Under these circumstances perhaps the committee would reconsider their decision not to re-open the matter.

Yours faithfully,

They report that the claimant has no other claim
Dear Sir,

We are instructed by our client to ask the committee to reconsider the award of £30 in this case. The amount of his claim was £45. 11. 6 and even this he considers would not be sufficient to replace the articles lost. His claim does not appear to have been examined by any of the assessors and we would respectfully suggest that our client should have an opportunity of proving the bona fides of his claim.

We trust this application will meet with the favourable consideration of the committee.

Yours faithfully,
