Special Notice to Fire Policy-Holders.

Policies of Insurance should be carefully examined to see—

That the amount insured is sufficient to cover the loss in case of a destructive Fire, and that every Building to be insured is included in the Policy, and covered for an adequate amount.

Policies on stock, or on Furniture, should also be looked into, to see that the Policies represent the present position and value of the property.

There is reason to believe that in the case of many old Insurances, additions have been made to existing buildings, or new buildings have been erected, without corresponding changes having been effected in the Policies themselves; and particular attention is drawn to the matter, in order that, in case of Fire, there may be no disappointment arising out of incomplete or insufficient Insurance.

In any proposal which may be made for alteration in Policies, the numbers of the Policies should be advised.

Dear Sir,

I herewith enclose claim completed by the above and duplicate copy which kindly have attended to in due course.

I hope to send you the last receipt for Premium on the Fire Policy, together with the Fire Policy in a Couple of days time, but as regards the latter, I think it has been mislaid, as it is an old Policy, in which case, I shall obtain and send you a letter from the Company showing the property covered etc.

Yours faithfully,

EXPLANATION

As to lateness in lodging claim, it may be explained that the Claimants did not know the damage was of such a serious nature of entailing such expense until obtaining the estimate annexed from a Contractor recently, and they were not fully aware of their rights with regard to making the claim or the procedure to be adopted until advised very recently by their Solicitor, and they trust therefore that the Committee will not withhold from them the benefit of Compensation for their loss merely on account of the fact that their claim is lodged a little late.
