The Secretary,
Property Losses Committee,
51, St. Stephens Green East,
DUBLIN.

Dear Sir,

We have received the form of affidavit which we are asked to make in connection with the loss of our stock at 71, Middle Abbey Street, this building having been totally destroyed in the recent Rebellion.

In this affidavit it specifically mentions that the claim must show the cost of the property destroyed. The whole of our stock in Dublin was produced before the War broke out, and in consequence a considerable increased cost is now being incurred in replacing it. Further, owing to the Parts being of a patented machine, there is more than the usual difference between the actual cost of manufacturing the Parts and the selling value, owing to the question of patent rights and initial cost of experimentation, etc. all of which have to be covered.

Would you therefore be good enough to let me know whether, in arriving at the cost price, we are entitled to add any charge to cover the points mentioned above?

I enclose herewith a list giving the details of all the stock which has been lost, and against each item I have had placed the selling value, and you will see that the selling value of the whole is £754. 4. 6.

Our Policy of Insurance was for £550.
