I have calculated the cost price of the book at the mere cost of printing binding & publishing; but in reality they cost more as there were other heavy expenses in production, such as research, fees, typing, etc.

I claim for the 68, only the price at which we were issuing it to the original subscribers; after publication the price was raised to 2 guineas, at which price I claim as we could have got that price for all sold, i.e. the 31 remaining copies

Plates are charged at the prices charged us by A. Thom etc.
